Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Berardi et al. (US 2007/0265964) in view of Coppola et al. (US 6,630,138).

1. Regarding claims 1-6, 10 and 13-20, Berardi discloses a method of transmitting data between a RFID base station (fig. 1, item 104) and a terminal (item 110), where commands are generated (para. 67). However, Berardi does not disclose emulating and converting the commands. Coppola discloses emulating a terminal and converting commands (fig. 2, items 42 or 44, and 46; note: LPOS - legacy controller). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to emulate a terminal and convert commands in the invention of Berardi in order to continue to use an older control device (Coppola, col. 1, lines 40-45).

2. Regarding claims 7 and 11-12, in Berardi the information is used to communicate with a barcode scanner (fig. 1, item 110; note: POS device - para. 35, lines 1-11).
